ISN'T PACKAGE GOODS

- YOU CAN'T just reach up and take it off a shelf or rack.
- IT TAKES TIME to produce good printing, and a good newspaper.
- AT THE PIONEER we try our hardest to apply printing skill and modern machinery so that good work can be produced quickly. But it does help if we can have a reasonable allowance of time.
- YOUR ORDERS for printing are always appreciated. And if speed is of the essence we bear down.
- YOUR NEWS ITEMS and advertising orders are always welcome, too. The earlier in the week the better. We do turn out a whole lot of type those last hours before the final press run every Tuesday—but it helps considerably if copy comes into the office early. By "early" we mean Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and not later than Monday evening if you want to catch the current edition.

How can I save money?

That's what I asked the Government Annuity representative.

I was trying to balance the family books at the time and told him that, like most home-makers, I had so many places to spend my paychecks, my account was zero at the end of each month.

But...

He showed me a simple saving plan to provide an income in the future, that was as practical as a trip to the barber, and a plan which suited my budget.

Before you say "It's a good idea, but I just can't afford it," talk it over with a CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITY representative, or write for information.

I'm glad I did!

TRIAL AND ERROR

It took the electors of New Zealand and Australia quite a few years to make up their minds that the socialistic experiment was a failure. When the light of economic common sense dawned on them, they did not take long to rectify their mistake. They trooped to the polls, and in a matter of a few hours, tossed out the Labour Party in favour of a renewed test of free enterprise.

Unfortunately, their ushering in of anti-Labour parties cannot altogether undo what has been done in the time Labour held the reins of office. It's so easy to nationalize, but so hard to denationalize. For this reason, the outgoing governments will leave behind much that will endure.

What has happened to New Zealand particularly in the 14 years the planners occupied the governmental driver's seat? Certainly, the deterioration in public services, affecting hospitals, hotels, shops, industries and transport bordered on the amazing. The New Zealanders paid the highest tax rate in the British Commonwealth of Nations. Their sales tax, which had quadrupled since 1933, is a viciously lusty 20 per cent. Their shortage of consumer goods was worsening as the years went by and the height of their prices for so-called luxury items like cars, gasoline, radios and refrigerators was, to say the least, purse-disturbing.

The Labour politicians crowed that living costs under their regime were the lowest in the democratic world. On paper this was true, but the index was proven wrong because of the mountainous subsidies paid out by the government. No government can create money except by taxation and these fat subsidies were simply the taxpayers' own money coming back to them after a bit of handling by the bureaucracy.

The incoming free enterprises are committed by force of circumstances to retain much of the old. It would be impossible to cancel out overnight the accumulated socialistic handouts, which are narcotic in their influence. What the fresh governments can do in the way of the new is encourage competition—almost a forgotten word in the Antipodes—cut taxation and let some air out of the inflated currency bubble by providing more and more consumer goods.

What influence these elections will have on the United Kingdom vote later this year is hard to say, but the defeat of the Labour Party after all these years in power does raise one important question: why do Canadians even consider the thought of testing oil-out socialism as a way of life in this country when they have seen what an overdose of it did to the continent and islands down under?

WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS

One of the things which is a constant source of bewilderment to citizens of a democratic country is the apparent inability of those living behind the Iron Curtain to realize that by our standards, theirs is a very low standard of living. The answer of course is that the Iron Curtain is an efficient device, designed not so much to contain whatever secrets might exist in the countries under Communist domination, but rather to deprive citizens of those countries of any opportunity of learning anything of what is happening outside.

When we get fighting mad at something we see in print, when we feel inclined to scream "there ought to be a law", let us reflect that the ultimate extension of government control over what can be printed, and what can be read, can result in the same kind of stifling bondage as has developed behind the Iron Curtain.

Good Crowd Attends Agricultural Meeting

A large and representative group of farmers from the surrounding district attended an agricultural meeting held in Didsbury on January 31st.

The meeting featured Chemical Aids for agriculture such as 2-4-D for weeds, CHLORIDAN for grass-nopper control, and chemicals for seed treatment. A feature of the meeting was two coloured films, one on soil conservation, and the other on the use of 2-4-D.

Mr. D.M. McLean, Assistant Director, Line Elevator Farm Service, stressed the contribution made by science in the production of new crops, and his practices to assist the farmer in his never ending battle against weeds, pests and disease. The farmer in many cases, has accepted and put into practice many of these recent developments. The fact that over eight million acres of Prairie farmlands were treated with 2-4-D last year to control weeds, is an indication of the wide acceptance of chemical weed control by farmers. He stated that chemical weed control should not be looked upon as a final answer but it can be useful, along with improved culture and tillage practices in the control of weeds, which cause a terrific annual loss to western Canada farmers. The recent introduction of chemicals such as Chlorid and DDT for the control of crop and livestock pests, is just the beginning of greater advances yet to follow. Most of the chemical aids for agriculture available today may be the means of reducing our cost of production.

With competitors for world markets stiffening, Mr. McLean stated that continued attention must be given by the farmers to reduce their cost of production.

Mr. H.J. Mather, Assistant to Director, Line Elevators Farm Service, speaking on the use of 2-4-D, stressed the importance of farmers knowing their weeds and following directions to the letter. Weather conditions previous to spraying, he said, was one of the most important considerations in deciding on the rate of application of 2-4-D. Stage of growth is also an important factor. The speaker emphasized the fact that 2-4-D is not the final solution of the weed problem, good cultural practices are just as important as they ever were.

Mr. Mather illustrated with colored slides the deterioration of our western soils and emphasized the need for better soil management. Wind and water erosions must be checked, he said, if a permanent agricultural industry is to be maintained. Maintaining a trash cover and periodic seeding of the land to grass will check erosion. The use of fertilizer in the more humid areas was emphasized.

In the question period that followed, local farmers had an opportunity of securing more information in connection with their weed control and cropping problems. The meeting was sponsored by the Line Elevators Farm Service, who employ a qualified staff as a service to the farmers of Western Canada.

The 1,150-mile Edmonton-Lake Superior oil pipe line moved a step nearer completion this week when the first shipment of 16-inch diameter pipe left Welland, Ont. The pipe—largest ever produced in quantity in Canada—was ordered by the Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. and Page-Hervey Tubes Ltd. built a new pipe mill to make it. Formerly pipe of this size had to be imported.

This modern continuous welding machine closes the seam in the 16-inch pipe (lower right) as it rolls under the big copper wheel. Welding is electric with 3,000 amperes used in the process. The white liquid flowing over the wheel is an oil-and-water emulsion mixture. Watching the pipe emerge from the machine is assistant welder Miss Labau.

Miss Amy Wilson's Experiences in North

All the Indians began to improve and extra food and clothing arrived for them by train, and being provincially employed, I had to justify my existence in that country by visiting the white settlers within a 20 mile radius and immunize them. We had a very cold and miserable trip 20 miles down the river on New Year's Eve to immunize 12 people living there, and it was below the 50 mark. We had to stay there over New Year's day and return on the 2nd. Gosh that was an ordeal, sleighing and being through three-foot drifts into a bitter north wind and knowing it was 45 degrees below zero, however, it was real heaven at this farm which was clean and cheerful. They were actually awfully pleased to see us, too, as they had seen no one for weeks. So nice to enjoy someone else's cooking and a nice warm bedroom with a large bed, after the dirt and squalor at the trading post and a narrow bench where Amy and I had been sleeping.

By January 4th all patients had recovered sufficiently to need no further treatment and we were anxious to return for grub was getting low and there seemed no point in hanging around. The power wagon was completely frozen in so the agent had flown out to get a mechanic.

Amy and I started back by team, bringing along an extra saddle horse so we could make a detour and visit another Indian encampment five miles off the trail. Our teamster certainly was a jewel—we couldn't have asked for a kinder or more thoughtful helper except with the horses. He was, I think, the one truly bright spot in the whole expedition. We travelled all day and arrived at another homesteader's by moonlight, and another one-room domicile. The temperature was only 12 below so Amy and I decided to sleep in the sleigh and leave the cabin to the four men. After a typical camper's supper of "goulash" we retired to sleep "neath a full moon—well fortified all round the sleigh with large hot rocks and we were very comfortable.

Next day Amy and I rode in to the Indian camp. She took a great kidding from the men because of her inability to mount but she stuck on the fractious beast until we reached the camp and then had to walk a half mile to find a stump to mount from for the return trip.

That night the sleigh was decidedly chilly with a Hudson Bay Chinook blowing and the thermometer hovering around 30 below, but we weathered the storm and slept well.

On Friday, January 6, we made the last of the trip out to the highway and were met by one of my staff nurses at the highway and whisked down to Ft. St. John, after stopping for an immunization clinic half way down.

Amy and I were both dirty, tired and weary and dying for a bath, clean clothes and most of all, sheets and blankets. We had one night of rest and next day headed right out again to another Indian camp east of Ft. St. John to check on reported illness there, which proved to be a false alarm.

When we returned to town we found out that the Agent who had flown back to the original camp with a mechanic was reporting over radio that another case had broken out, so Amy packed at once and prepared to fly in at 8 a.m. today. Unfortunately the aeroplane accident on the run way before it took off and damaged the tail, so Amy had to find another method of transportation. I drove her back up the highway to where we had said goodbye to the team and sleigh just two short days ago and she was very fortunate in hiring a dog sleigh, of all things, and ten minutes before I started this episode she was on her way back to Halfway Valley again.

I'm sick to think she has to go back but realize she would never refuse, and actually she is far happier travelling with a good runner and five starlight dogs than by aeroplane. She should reach the bachelor's homestead by breakfast time and will be at the Indian Camp by noon tomorrow. She will stay only long enough to administer anti-toxin and penicillin for a day or two and then return, for she is far behind on her Valentine's schedule. I hope to make the trip back from Whitehorse with her when she does eventually make it, but by then she will be writing herself.

It has just struck me that I haven't even introduced myself, but she has probably mentioned that there are other nurses of sorts in the country and I am one of them. Technically I am "the Peace River Health Unit Supervisor," but in actuality I am just another nurse who likes the people more than a little.
